Health conditions related to the changes in bone and muscle mass that occur as we age, like osteoporosis and sarcopenia, are also more common. We may also find it becoming more of a challenge managing the conditions we have.

It becomes more important to ensure we are consuming adequate amounts of certain nutrients and limiting those that may be harmful.

What nutrients do we need to focus on, and what can we do to age well?

Believe it or not, eating a healthy diet can be enjoyable. Learn how you can use your diet not just to eat well but to age well too!
